Chamberlain Gets Blaring Welcome At Port of Genoa

Prime Minister and Viscount Halifax Land in Italy, Are Greeted by Noisy Throngs; Leave for Rome

Will Stand Firm

Anglo-French Determination to Make No Concessions Shadows Coming Talks

(By The Associated Press)
Prime Minister Chamberlain carried his appeasement campaign to Italy today on a visit to Premier Mussolini while Europe kept an eye on the recently intensified Spanish war as a possible index of the trend of events.

Flags and blaring bands greeted the prime minister and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, at Genoa as they sped toward Rome fresh from a brief talk at the French foreign office.
Though Anglo-French determination to stand firm against Italian demands for colonial concessions from France was re-emphasized at that meeting, Rome fascists believed Mussolini would place those demands for French territory squarely before Chamberlain during his three-day visit.

Additional hazards to the British appeasement drive were provided by open Italian participation in the current insurgent offensive in Spain and reports that Germany's new "military submarine" fleet was intended to operate in the Mediterranean.

In London the belief was expressed that the next few days might determine the fate of Chamberlain's policy and show whether there was any justification for predictions attributed to American diplomats that another European war would start next spring.

French and British newspapers carried brief dispatches reporting such predictions by the United States ambassador to London and Paris, Joseph P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, before the House and Senate military affairs committees in Washington yesterday.

Officials withheld comment though potential war dangers were seen not only in Italy's colonial campaign but also in German ambitions for domination of the Ukraine as well as unrest in central Europe along the newly marked frontiers of Czechoslovakia.

Hungary warned Prague last night that any "frontier violation" would start a Hungarian invasion of Czechoslovakia.

In northeastern Spain government troops were reported to be retreating from Montblanch, only 18 miles from Tarragona, which the insurgents hope to take before turning north for a 50-mile drive to Barcelona.

In southwestern Spain government forces were reported to have launched new vigorous attacks pushing the offensive they designed as a diversion from the Catalan campaign.

In Shanghai Japanese reported they had defeated Chinese forces attempting to recapture Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai.

'Blondes Unlucky'

So Believe Diehard Scots Who Seek Brunettes to 'First Foot,' 'New Year's'

Glasgow Jan. 11 (AP)—Diehard Scots of the Inverness village of Blarmacholdach will celebrate New Year's Day tomorrow, observing a local custom more than 300 years old with a preference for brunettes.

Under the older Julian calendar Britain's and Scotland's New Year began January 12, and the villagers have refused since 1599 to change it.

Tonight at midnight the village kirk bells will herald the "New Year" and Blarmacholdach folk will "first foot" each other. This is what "first footing" means.

If a dark haired person is first to put his or her foot across the doorway on New Year's Day it is said to spell a year of good fortune for the household. Blondes are believed to be unlucky, so brunettes always are in demand at New Year's.

House Hears Hoffman Attack Murphy Today As Peoples' Betrayer

Michigan Representative Lashes Out at Newly Appointed Attorney General, Saying When Governor of Michigan He Left Many to Mercy of 'Armed Invaders'

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—The House heard a bitter attack today by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) on the labor policies and political background of Frank Murphy, former Michigan governor recently nominated as Attorney General.

"The record shows that Frank Murphy failed to perform his duty as governor of the state, that he betrayed his people, that he left many of them to the mercy of the armed invaders," said Hoffman.

Wicks Is Sponsor Of Bill Extending Date on Licenses

Deadline on Procuring Car Plates Would Be Moved Until April 1 to End Rush and Delays

A bill sponsored by State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and introduced by Assemblyman George B. Parsons of Syracuse would establish the deadline for the purchasing of automobile license plates at April 1, it was announced today.

If the proposal is adopted as a law, it is pointed out by the legislators and others in favor of the bill, it would lessen the inconveniences to motorists and clerks at the motor vehicle bureau offices.

The motor vehicle and traffic law now provides for registration of vehicles on January 1, with 30 days grace.

Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Parsons declared today that adoption of this measure would abolish the tedious waiting in line now usually encountered by motorists who go to the offices of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau to buy their plates, would provide a more convenient time for the average motorist to make this financial outlay, and it would also lighten the work of the state employees at motor vehicle bureau offices.

New Sewer for Lower Part of City Suggested

Plans for Interceptor Sewer in Lower Section of City Are Outlined to Board of Public Works, as Proposed by Consulting Engineer E. T. McCaffrey—WPA Aid

Plans for a proposed interceptor sewer in the lower section of the city were outlined to members of the Board of Public Works at its monthly meeting yesterday.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman informed the board that he had conferred on the proposal with E. T. McCaffrey, consulting engineer, and suggested a report assuming that the work would be done as a WPA project.

The proposed sewer would start at Abel street, near Hudson street, run northerly on Abel street to Ravine street; easterly on Ravine street to Dock street; northerly on Dock street to West Strand and East Strand to the treatment plant. Its length would be about 8,400 feet.

The sewer line would require pipe of from 12 to 24 inches, sunk to a depth of from 6 to 14 feet.

During the construction of this interceptor sewer, a great amount of water would be encountered, due to close proximity to the Rondout creek. It was stated, and there would be times at high tide when it was probable that it would be impossible to work.

Assuming that five separate gangs were employed, said the report, and that adequate pumping equipment is used, it is estimated that it will take about a year to complete.

From Broadway to the ferry slip, which is the busiest section of street, approximately three months will be required to complete that section.

The report was ordered filed. In discussing the matter with the board, Mayor Heiselman, who presided at the session, believed that if the interceptor sewer was built the work should be done by contract. The other members of the board agreed.

Deeds Accepted
Deeds of land from Mrs. George Burgevin and Valentin Burgevin, Inc., were accepted. The deeds would provide for the extension of Pearl street to the city line.

Proposed Sewers
The board approved a permit from the state health department for the proposed construction of sewer extensions in Washington, Linderman, Hillcrest and Hillswood streets, and Chapel, Hunter, Abbey, Hone, Beckett, Arlont and Melrose streets. The permit will be filed with the county clerk.

The building of the proposed sewers is part of the city-wide WPA sewer project.

Better Lighting
The board also approved the installation of street lights of 1,000 candlepower on Wurts and McCutcheon streets in place of the proposed 600 candlepower lights. A new street light is also to be installed on Andrew street near the entrance to the Myron J. Michael School.

The board approved the purchase of two Good Roads model S material spreaders. During the winter months these spreaders will be used in spreading sand on slippery streets, and in the summer for spreading stone on resurfaced streets.

The Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church, sent in a written request for permission to hold song service in Lawton Park on Sunday evenings during July, August and September.

The request was granted. Bills were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

No Hope for Ruppert, Say His Doctors; Is Ill With Phlebitis

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—Genial Col. Jacob Ruppert, stout little bachelor sportsman who built one of the nation's biggest fortunes—in brewing, baseball and real estate—fought strongly today against an attack of phlebitis that has kept him from his office for nine months.

Physicians said there was no hope for recovery of the 71-year-old owner of the world champion New York Yankees.

Rousing from a semi-coma last night he turned to Albert Brennan, his chief aide for 27 years, and said:

"I've been sick a long time, haven't I, Al? But, you know what? I'm going to get better."

Albany Announces Firm Stand; City Asks 5-Year Delay

Board of Public Works Passes Resolution to Have Legislation Effected to Delay $100,000 Outlay

'Distinct Menaces'

Holmquist Says Survey Shows Conditions 'Distinctly a Menace' Over Wide Area
Action locally to delay construction of a sewage disposal system will be met by a strong determination of the State Department of Health to "clean up the Hudson," it was indicated today in a report from Albany made public almost concurrent with action of the local board of public works to effect a five-year delay of the project here.

Conditions described as "distinctly a menace to health," were found in the state's survey made along both shores of the Hudson for a distance of about 40 miles from a point north of Kingston to a point opposite West Point, according to C. A. Holmquist, director of the division of sanitation of the state health department.

'Well Under Way'

"Fortunately the movement to terminate objectionable pollution of the river is well under way," Mr. Holmquist declared. Many sewage treatment plants will be constructed in municipalities along the Hudson this year, he said, "and in the not too distant future we may confidently look forward to a clean river."

Opposition to starting the project here as voiced by Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman in his annual message is based largely upon the extra financial burden to the city, and through his recommendation the Board of Public Works yesterday adopted a resolution to have the project delayed by legislation at Albany.

Estimated Cost

The resolution asks that State Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway sponsor legislation which would defer the State Health Department's decree directing Kingston and other Hudson river communities to have sewage disposal plants in operation by December 1, 1940.

The cost to Kingston, it is estimated, would be at least $400,000. Two plants would be required here, and the annual cost of maintenance was set at $12,000 a year.

Resolution

The resolution adopted by the Board of Public Works follows: Whereas, the Board of Public Works of the city of Kingston, N. Y., passed a resolution on the 22nd day of October, 1937, to the effect that it was the sense of the board that detailed plans and specifications regarding treatment of sanitary sewage be filed with the State Board of Health at Albany, N. Y., on or before July 1, 1939, and that said plant be constructed on or before December 1, 1940;

Whereas, this board, from investigations and surveys made by it, now believes that the plants, if constructed, would cost about $400,000.00; that the annual cost of maintenance thereof would be about $12,000.00 a year; and

Whereas, it is the same sense of this board that the economic conditions in the city of Kingston, and the financial condition of said city, would not at this time satisfy

Roland H. Green Resigns Position As Superintendent

Present BPW Official, Recently Named, Third to Resign Within Year; Oppenheimer Moves Into Vacancy

Max Oppenheimer, who has been employed by the local Board of Public Works for several years, was named acting street superintendent, to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Roland H. Green, who has accepted a position with the New York city Board of Water Supply.

Mr. Green was named superintendent at the beginning of the year. His resignation is to become effective January 15.

Mr. Green is the third superintendent to resign within the period of a year to accept a position with the Board of Water Supply of New York city. The other two who resigned were David P. Conway and Chris Heiselman.

Mr. Green had been serving as acting superintendent since the resignation of Mr. Heiselman last year and at the organization meeting of the board the first of the year his appointment was made permanent.

The resignation was accepted with regret by the board. Mr. Green will report for duty at Kingston on Monday. His letter of resignation, in which he sets forth his reasons for the steps taken, follows:

"I have been offered a civil service position with the Engineering Department of the New York City Board of Water Supply, which guarantees tenure of office for a considerable number of years and offers possibilities for a permanent position, with opportunities for advancement.

"When I accepted appointment as your superintendent, I knew, of course, that as the result of a civil service examination held a year ago, my name was on an eligible list for transmittal, grade 4. This list was inactive, and there was no possibility for my appointment. Recently, however, the New York City Civil Service Commission certified this list to the Board of Water Supply from which engineering assistants could be appointed, and it is such a position that I have accepted.

This action on the part of the New York authorities, of course, I could not foresee, and I regret very much that circumstances should have so developed as to make it advisable to me and family to accept another position so soon after your appointment.

"I herewith submit my resignation as Superintendent of the Board of Public Works, effective January 15, 1939. I take this action with a feeling of great regret and wish to express my appreciation to the members of your board for the courtesies and considerations shown by me during my brief period of service."

Oppenheimer Named
Mayor Heiselman called the attention of the board to the fact that the spring progress of road work in the city would not start until April, and unless there were heavy snowfalls the remainder of the winter, there would be little activity in the street department.

The board agreed and Mr. Oppenheimer was unanimously named head of the department, pending the filling of the position of superintendent.

Board of Health Studies Vaccine Use on Children

Compulsory Smallpox Vaccination of Children Is Discussed; Problem to Sanford and Cashin

The question of compulsory vaccination against smallpox for all children before they can attend public or parochial schools in Kingston will be studied by Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, and Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin, to whom the question was referred Tuesday evening by the board of health meeting in the first regular session of the new year.

The health officer and corporation counsel were instructed to submit a report at the next board meeting as to whether the board had the power to legally adopt a regulation requiring compulsory smallpox vaccination as a health measure.

The matter came up during a discussion of general health conditions in the city, and it was brought out by one member of the board that he did not believe that 50 per cent of the school children in Kingston were vaccinated.

The annual report of the officials of the board that the infant mortality rate had been high during 1938, and in the discussion that followed it developed that the board was of the opinion that the rate could be materially reduced in Kingston if expectant mothers would avail themselves of the facilities offered by the child hygiene clinic. The question of inaugurating an educational campaign along those lines was also discussed by the board.

The annual report showed that during 1938 there had been 655 births in the city, of which number 276 were non-resident. There were also 632 deaths in the city, of which 204 were non-residents.

The infant mortality rate was 70 with a resident rate of 62.8. In 1937, there were 691 births and 657 deaths, with an infant mortality rate of 41.7.

During 1938 there were 422 cases of measles, 330 cases of scarlet fever, 147 cases of chickenpox, 381 cases of whooping cough, and 156 cases of pneumonia.

There has been one death from whooping cough; one from typhoid fever; 29 of pneumonia and 15 of tuberculosis, the report showed. Bills were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

In Place of Sons

Mothers of Five Sentenced to Die to Ask Governor for Right to Die for Sons

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 11 (AP)—Mothers of five convicted New York city slayers came here today to tell Governor Lehman they wanted to die in place of their boys.

The five, sentenced to die in Sing Sing's electric chair the week of January 22, are Dominick Guarguara, 19; Isadore Zimmerman, 21; Philip Chalfetz, 27; Arthur Friedman, 21; and Joseph O'Laughlin, 23. They were found guilty of slaying Detective Michael J. Foley during an attempted hold-up in April, 1937.

Mothers ask social welfare agents alike blame the slayers' plight on the slum environments in which they were forced to live. Already in the hands of the governor is a petition bearing 300,000 names, appealing for clemency.

As East Side settlement for the slayers gained headway last month, the five mothers unanimously offered their lives in exchange for those of their sons.

The Namm Department Store already has adopted a wage stability plan.

Factory to Use Diesel Engines

The installation of two Diesel engines is now under way at the former American Cigar Factory building, corner of Broadway and Pine Grove avenue.

The work is being done by Joseph Gruber, electrical contractor, and engines and alternators of 100 kilowatt capacity, will be used to generate electric current for both power and light purposes throughout the entire building. In addition the exhaust from the engines will be recovered and utilized for heating purposes.

The equipment being installed is of the latest type and the work is well under way. The panel board is already in place. Mr. Gruber expects to have the job completed within two or three weeks.

Theatre Planned For Ellenville

Norbury Hall, which occupies the ground floor of the Pioneer Engine Co. headquarters on Center street, Ellenville, scene of innumerable athletic and social activities since its opening in 1901, will be a movie house if plans now under way are completed.

At the meeting of the trustees of the company Tuesday night, following authorization by the company, an agreement was tentatively entered into for the lease of the hall for moving picture purposes. A trustee of the company said this morning that New York interests are forming a company for the management of the hall as a movie house and that it is understood that the contract will be closed on Monday.

The initial lease will cover a period of three years, with option to renew for 21 years. Plans are to start alterations and installations in about two weeks. The business would start about the first of June or possibly earlier.

The program, as announced, is to spend around $15,000 in alterations to make the hall suitable for movie purposes, equip it with necessary machines, and install 600 seats.

For many years, following its opening in October, 1901, Norbury Hall was the scene of varied activities. For several years Pioneer Engine Co. sponsored a basketball team that met teams from all this section, while until a year or so ago, when the new high school gymnasium was opened, the hall was used by the Ellenville High School teams for practice and games.

The hall was also in demand for dances and the like. Recent years have seen a great change, however, with no demand for basketball purposes, while dancing patronage has been reduced.

During the past year an attempt was made to introduce roller skating, but the public did not respond in numbers sufficient to make the venture profitable.

Quiz Conducted By Rotary Club

A session on "questions and answers" made up the entertainment program at the weekly luncheon meeting of Rotary, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel this noon.

The questions, propounded by Sam Scudder, Jr., pertained largely to "classification" of the various members and the fun of the day was found in the extra remarks that accompanied some of the answers.

The Rotarians divided into two groups for the quiz—the "Baldheads" and the "Bushwhackers." The reporter was told that the Bushwhackers won out.

The program of the day was to have included a talk on ceramics, but the speaker was unable to be present.

Fowler Expresses Thanks For Seals Publicity

Editor, The Freeman:

The generous cooperation given by the Kingston Daily Freeman has been of great aid in the recent Christmas Seal campaign. An important aim in this campaign is to direct public attention to the problem of tuberculosis, the nature of the disease, and the ways of preventing and curing it.

Without the generous assistance of your paper, the desired results in spreading information on tuberculosis and in selling Seals could not have been attained.

We wish to send thanks through your paper to the members of the local committee and to all others who gave assistance and to the generous and whole-hearted response of the people of the community. They show an appreciation of the importance of the fight against tuberculosis.

About the Folks

John Skelton of New Jersey, who has been visiting William S. Skelton of 4 Crane street, has returned home.

'Goose Hangs High' Means Favorable Sailing Ahead

The old phrase "the goose hangs high," is a picturesque expression and a puzzling one, with only one certainty—that when the goose hangs high, it is a good omen. Perhaps it does not matter much whether "hangs" means honk, as American lexicographers contend, or means hangs, in one of the Oxford dictionary's definitions. In the first instance, observes a writer in the Indianapolis News, the phrase would mean clear sailing ahead, bright prospects, actually and figuratively; in the second, that game meat has been hung until it is "high," or, figuratively, that happy days are just around the corner.

American dictionaries say that the probability is that "hangs" is a mispronunciation of "honks." To support this view, some students of sayings and folklore in the West say that early settlers always said hang for honk because they talked through their noses. That seems to be rather far-fetched. Although the Oxford dictionary does not refer to the goose, it cites venison as a meat that is permitted to "hang high," or as an American phrase has it, to "get sanctified." In Virginia, where hunting and cooking trace directly to England, quail and other game birds are permitted to season until they "hang high." It would seem, therefore, that the Westerners were not mispronouncing, but misunderstanding. Perhaps those who erred were not of English stock, and being unfamiliar with the idiom, thought the word was honk.

Many Famous People Are Numbered as Cat Lovers

Frederick B. Eddy in "The Planet of the Heath" (National Geographic magazine) says: "Many famous people have been numbered among cat lovers. Among these was Mohammed, who cut off a piece of his cloak rather than disturb his pet asleep upon it. Cardinal Richelieu signed his state papers with a host of kittens playing upon his desk. Theodore Roosevelt had several cats in the White House. Poincaré and Clemenceau both loved cats, and the latter directed that he be buried near his pets which had given him so much joy. Mark Twain has immortalized the cat Tom Quetz in 'Roughing It'."

"Henry James often worked with a cat on his shoulder. Edgar Allan Poe loved cats, although his famous 'The Black Cat' hardly gives an attractive picture. There are Charles Dudley Warner, whose tribute to his cat Calvin has become one of the classics of American literature. Booth Tarkington has a rare understanding of cats, as his description of the belligerent, loose-living Gipsy in 'Penrod and Sam' plainly shows. Even crabbled old Thomas Carlyle so enjoyed cats' society that his wife complained that his indulgence of their appetites was fast ruining the rug beneath the dining room table."

Schmeling Plans Comeback

Berlin, Jan. 11 (AP)—Max Schmeling, Germany's perennial heavyweight contender, today confirmed rumors that he is planning a comeback as he said, "I am not quitting with a knock-out on my record." He was knocked out by Champion Joe Louis in the first round of their title bout last summer.

R. Cassell Is Held On Forgery Count Citing Bad Money

After being closely questioned for several days by the police, Raymond Cassell, 35, of 58 Ann street, was placed under arrest, at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at police headquarters by Lieutenant James V. Simpson on a charge of forgery, which alleges the passing of a $20 counterfeit bill at Brumman's, Ann and Meadow streets, on January 6. Later in the afternoon Cassell was arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court, and demanding a hearing he was remanded to the county jail until Thursday morning. Attached to the information lodged against Cassell by the police is a statement alleged to have been given and signed by him in which he stated that he had obtained the counterfeit money from his brother-in-law, Wray Deer Purdy of Woodstock, who was arrested Saturday afternoon by the police on a charge of passing counterfeit $20 bills and was taken in charge by federal agents on Sunday and taken to New York city for arraignment. According to the statement Cassell said that Purdy, who had been making his headquarters at the Cassell home while in Kingston, had returned from a trip and given him a $20 bill to purchase four bottles of beer at the Brumman place. Cassell, it is alleged, purchased the beer and tendered the counterfeit bill in payment and received change. On various occasions, according to the statement, Purdy had stopped at the Cassell house, and on various occasions Purdy would be away for weeks at a time. Purdy returned from one of these trips on January 5, and stopped at the Cassell house, and it was at that time that Cassell was given the counterfeit bill. According to the statement Cassell made two trips to Brumman's for beer and each time paid for the beer with counterfeit $20 bills. According to the police Purdy when he came to Kingston on January 5, had more than $400 with him, and the police stated they have traced at least $300 in counterfeit $20 bills. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood said this morning that it was expected that the federal agents would be notified of the arrest of Cassell. If the federal agents do not take over the case it will be prosecuted in police court Thursday.

Plans Outlined For C. E. Union

A vote of confidence in the present officers, a pledge to the support of activities by the societies represented, and the appointment of a committee to suggest revisions in the present constitution was the result of a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Comforter Hall of the officers, ministers and presidents of Christian Endeavor societies who are members of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union. This meeting was called by the officers of the union in an endeavor to reorganize the Ulster County Union for the purpose of promoting increased activity and interest. Approximately 30 delegates attended, including representatives from Clintonville, New Paltz, New Hurley, Stone Ridge, Port Jervis, Rosendale, Bethany Chapel, Flatbush, First Dutch, Comforter.

Several plans were suggested in an effort to bring about better cooperation among the members of the union, and two of the present officers resigned.

Acting on the suggestion of the Rev. Russell B. Branson of Clintonville, the delegates, after much discussion, decided that increased support by societies of county activities was the main factor necessary in furthering county work, and that the present slate of officers should be retained intact until the regular convention which is scheduled next fall for Woodstock.

A committee composed of the Rev. R. B. Branson, the Rev. S. W. Ryder and the Rev. Harold Hoffman, meeting with President Frances K. Roosa, considered the appointment of individuals to such vacancies as had occurred in the official board of the union. President Roosa also appointed a committee composed of Miss Helen Wesp and the Rev. Albert H. Shultis to decide on proposed amendments to the constitution. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the Comforter Christian Endeavor Society.

Group Will Bid For Local License

Application for a license to operate a radio broadcasting station in Kingston will be made by the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation, Inc., to the Communications Commission at Washington on February 6. At that time the local corporation will ask for a license to operate a station in Kingston over a specified wavelength. Cashin & Ewig, who are attorneys for the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation, will be represented at the hearing before the commission by Gustave A. Gerber of 120 West 42nd street, New York, an attorney who specializes in appearing before the commission on applications relative to broadcasting applications.

C. Ray Everett of Kingston has been appointed commercial manager of the corporation and is at present engaged in a survey of Kingston and Ulster county business men to ascertain facts relative to the need for a station in Kingston and their reaction to the proposition.

Mr. Everett recently disposed of his grocery and bakery business on Main and Wall street to Edwin C. Shults.

John R. McKenna of 43-33 46th Street, Long Island City, is president and technical advisor for the corporation. The four other directors of the corporation which was granted a certificate of incorporation on February 23, 1938, are Norman B. Furman of 320 Empire Boulevard, Brooklyn; Benjamin S. Colmes of Mt. Vernon; Morris S. Novik of 10 Park avenue, New York city; Mildred Blumberg of 15 Pier street, Yonkers.

Subscribers to the petition for incorporation are John R. McKenna, Norman B. Furman and Florence Wolin of 5303 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, each of whom have one share of stock.

Kingston Broadcasting Corporation is incorporated for $15,000 and the purpose of the corporation as stated in the application is to operate a general broadcasting business. There are 1,000 shares of a par value of $15.

Under the application of the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation to the Communications Commission for a license to operate a station in Kingston it is desired to have a wave length assigned to the station which will operate on such power as to permit reception over an area of from 25 to 30 miles surrounding Kingston. The corporation, Mr. Cashin stated, was not seeking any financial backing from local people but was financing the proposition without local aid.

Mr. Everett, who has been appointed commercial manager, is at present visiting local merchants and business people to ascertain their reaction to the proposition and learn whether commercial broadcasts may be sponsored by merchants in the event a license is granted the station to operate. No financial aid is being sought, he said, and his work is in the nature of a survey of local requirements.

In the event a license is granted to operate the station it is planned to operate a full time station during such hours as the commission may allocate and to broadcast religious, educational, instructive, entertainment and musical programs with commercial sponsors throughout the time the station is on the air.

One of the features planned is a "gypsy mike" which would be sent out through the county for interviews and quizzes from various points in the area.

Since the corporation has been formed work on technicalities has been progressing under the direction of Mr. McKenna and several local men who have become interested in the plan.

Wicks Is Sponsor Of License Bill

during the last three months of the registration year.

They think that by changing the date when license plate fees are due to a more convenient time, motor vehicle owners will be able to get a full 12 months of use and enjoyment out of their automobiles. This measure has the merit of easing the tax burden while at the same time providing greater revenue to the state, a happy combination that is usually difficult to achieve.

"The change in registration date to April 1 is not an untimely experiment, for it has proved successful in a number of states that have made the change. Motorists and motor clubs have found the change beneficial, because it provides owners additional time to purchase plates and allows them an opportunity to pay their Christmas and first-of-the-year bills before their license plate fees are due. Motor vehicle commissioners also have been delighted with the change, because it levels off their work and increases the revenue from gasoline taxes by keeping a greater proportion of automobiles on the highways all year round."

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Senator and Assemblyman from this district be advised of this situation, and be it further

RESOLVED, that they be requested to introduce a bill in their respective branches of the Legislature of the state of New York having for its object the amendment of the Public Health Law of the state of New York to the effect that its provisions be not invoked against cities discharging untreated sewage into the Hudson river who fail to provide or arrange for construction and operation of adequate sewage treatment facilities by 1940, and be it further

RESOLVED, that said cities be not compelled to so construct and operate such sewage treatment plants by law or regulation, until such time as economic conditions and the financial conditions of the cities permit, but not earlier than January 1, 1944.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a certified copy of this resolution be transmitted to Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, at Albany, N. Y.

3,000 Daily Bathers

The State Health Department's report shows that as many as 3,000 persons bathe daily each summer in central sections of the Hudson River "where the waters are polluted by the discharge of sewage."

Much of this bathing is practiced by unsuspecting children, the report states, in larger communities in the immediate vicinity of main sewer outfalls where they are subjected to the sweep of gross pollution and where the conditions are distinctly a menace to health.

The report continues as follows: "These facts have been revealed," said C. A. Holmquist, director of the division of sanitation of the department, "as a result of a partial survey made along both shores of the Hudson for a distance of about 10 miles from a point north of Kingston to a point opposite West Point. "In one section children swim 200 feet below a sewer outlet. In several sections residents consider the waters unfit for bathing, but permit their children to go swimming because there is no other place for them to go. "Several schools and institutions have had to prohibit bathing in the Hudson because of its pollution and some at considerable expense have developed swimming pools to meet their needs for recreational facilities. "In another place in close proximity to a sewer outlet children swim and dive for coins thrown into the water by boat passengers. In another section swimming is carried on extensively in the midst of a continual stream of floating sewage solids. "There are numerous instances where bathing is practiced under conditions that are to be regarded as distinctly hazardous to the health of the bathers. "This menace will continue as long as municipalities continue to discharge untreated sewage to the river. "Fortunately the movement to terminate objectionable pollution of the river is well under way. Many sewage treatment plants will be constructed in municipalities along the Hudson this year, and in the not too distant future we may confidently look forward to a clean river which will enable its full development as an outstanding area of recreational activity, the possibilities for the development of which appear to be unlimited."

State Charities' Aid Holds Quarterly Meeting Friday

The State Charities Aid Association of Ulster county held its regular quarterly meeting on Friday in this city. Two very interesting reports were read. The first, that of Mrs. H. P. There all of the work, except the cooking, is done by the inmates. The institution was found in excellent condition. At the City Home in this city Mrs. Van Wageningen found that the building is being repainted and renovated as a WPA project, and was in excellent condition. There were 52 inmates, 13 of them women, and five employees, a matron, an attendant, a chef, an engineer and a night watchman.

BOYCOTTING ANNE'S BOOK

The public library board of a town in New York state voted 13 to 2 against adding Anne Lindbergh's book, "Listen! The Wind," to its collection. As explained by the clerk of the board, the members disapprove severely of Col. Lindbergh's acceptance of a medal from Hitler. Boycotting Mrs. Lindbergh's book is the board's way of expressing that disapproval.

"We are faced with the grave menace of anti-Americanism in this country both from the Nazis and the Communists, and it is time we wake up," a board member says. "I just don't believe our taxpayers should give money in book royalties to people like the Lindberghs."

There may be others who will agree with that attitude, but there are probably more who will see that such a stand is a greater menace to Americanism than any number of Nazi medals. Banning a book simply because of a dislike of its author's husband's actions or politics is only a step away from such a burning of books as the Nazis themselves have practised. It is contrary to the basic ideals on which Americanism is founded—freedom of speech and press. It is a form of persecution, though comparatively mild. The Americanism we wish to protect and honor is really endangered, not helped, by such action.

REPUBLICAN SPAIN

As Prime Minister Chamberlain went to Rome for his conference with Mussolini, which may prove to be almost as momentous as the famous Berchtesgaden and Munich conversations, he carried in his pocket a pledge from the Spanish government which should interest the world. It says that, if the Loyalist government wins the present civil war, it will avoid Communism and conduct itself as a "liberal parliamentary democracy." Also that it will cooperate with Italy and Britain in a Mediterranean pact to preserve that inland sea as a public highway for the use of all nations.

The anti-Communist pledge is important because the Spanish government has been accused, throughout this war, of dangerous radicalism, and that charge has been profitably capitalized by Franco and his supporters. The records show that the Spanish republic really started as a democracy, with representative government, but was pushed toward the Left by the Fascist rebellion and also by Communist and anarchist influences in Barcelona.

The world's democracies would support the Loyalists more openly and effectively if this matter were made clear, and if there were also assurances of more tolerance and co-operation between the Loyalists and the clerical party in Spain.

If Mr. Chamberlain can accomplish some such settlement of the Spanish problem, which must be on the agenda of this two-man conference, it will compensate for some of the harm he did at Munich. But there should be no more giving away of other people's countries.

RETALIATION

Spokesmen for the present German government bitterly resent being called "gangsters," but go right on using gangster methods. Their most recent threat is that if the United States adopts "economic sanctions" against them, in an effort to bring them to a sense of decency, they will adopt "fresh reprisals against the Jews in Germany."

It is the same old torture technique made familiar by American gangsters in a lawless era now, fortunately, almost ended. The Nazis have adopted as a national policy a procedure followed, in normal countries, only by the most vicious criminal groups.

It is the government of a great nation in the position of the juvenile bully of a neighborhood who, when deservedly punished by one of his equals, whines: "Wait till I catch your little brother!"

LICENSE NUMBER FAD

Somebody wants to know why automobile drivers almost universally long for low license numbers. The answer seems simple. Low numbers are more easily learned and remembered. Low numbers, also, seem to convey a certain distinction, because official cars used by governors and other higher-up public servants—usually have low numbers. Finally, the fact that there aren't enough low numbers to go around makes them desirable to people who like to be exclusive.

Whatever the reasons, the fact is a headache to license bureau workers, who must be as fair as possible in their assigning of numbers and yet seek to please license applicants.

Some one should start a fad for high numbers to ease the situation. There aren't enough of the highest numbers to go around, either, so their ownership might become a source of pride if the matter were well presented. There would even be one advantage in the high numbers. It would be harder to check on them.

HIGH SCHOOL IN ENGLAND

Great Britain, according to a recent report, is considering the establishment of a national system of free public high schools, comparable to our own. At the present time the British school system is said to be "a mixture of medieval foundations and modern attempts to provide some education." There are the so-called "public" or boarding schools, like Eton and Harrow, attended by wealthy boys. There are grammar or day schools for others. Since these nearly always charge a tuition fee, attendance is limited.

The reporting committee recommends that all fees in grammar schools be abolished, that courses be made more practical and that the government set up technical schools for vocational training.

All this reveals a surprisingly antiquated and inadequate school system, yet its product has always been considered pretty good. If the standards of thoroughness and quality of the "public" schools are maintained under a revised system and are, at the same time, extended to many formerly neglected children, British education should make great progress.

SICK OR WELL—EXERCISE IS HELPFUL

One of the expressions we heard as youngsters when an individual was constantly complaining about his aches, pains, stiffness or other conditions was, "If he'd stir his stumps, he'd have no stiffness, aches or pains." The thought was that it was lack of desire to work or play (plain laziness) that was responsible for his symptoms if any symptoms were present.

Today as we see men and women well past their three score years and ten walking about—stirring their stumps—it is not hard to understand why they keep free of symptoms and live so long. It is exercise, this walking about, that not only keeps their legs and feet supple, but keeps their hearts strong and their bloodvessels elastic.

Most of us do not realize that just to walk at an ordinary gait calls upon the heart to pump about five times as much blood as when we are at complete rest. And it is this call for more blood from the large muscles in the thighs and legs when we walk that not only keeps the thigh and leg muscles in good shape but makes the lungs work also to keep pure the extra blood needed.

Some idea of how any simple exercise, any stirring of our stumps, helps the circulation of the whole body can be seen in a report by Drs. W. J. Shaw and C. E. B. Richards, Manchester, in Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Following operation it sometimes happens that a little plug or clot—embolus—will get detached and plug or completely fill a small blood vessel thus shutting off the blood supply to a part with serious consequences if in the brain or heart. "This may be caused by poor circulation and other conditions. Drs. Shaw and Richards found that in one hospital where the same surgeon, same operations, same treatments, were given, without simple exercise after operation, the number of cases of embolus or plugging of the bloodvessels was five times as many as in the other hospital where the exercises were given. The exercises given were simply lifting arms high over their heads a few times and then lying on their backs drawing legs up to the body and straightening them again.

Sick or well, except perhaps in acute heart disease, a little exercise can be of great benefit to us.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

David Norris, her fiancé.

Chapter 24

An Awful Idiot

STRANGELY enough, it was Elsie Grant who gave Noel some sense of comfort in the ensuing hectic days. Without realizing it, too, she advanced David's cause with Noel.

On impulse, Noel called Denise's shop and invited Elsie to have dinner with her. Elsie was a different person than the spirited young woman who had joined the Christmas party in Claiborne. She was blossoming—it was the new job. She was more smartly dressed, too.

"Security is a wonderful thing for a woman, isn't it?" Noel commented as they sat in her living-room.

"I've you to thank for it all. I don't know how I'll ever repay you," Elsie's eyes were shining. "You don't know what it is to be jobless—to wonder where your next week's rent is coming from," Elsie continued.

"Oh, don't!" Noel was remembering the lean seasons with no calls from producers bolstering her courage. She found herself telling some of this to Elsie, of her own unhappy period at the Weymouth Club. "Are you still there?" she asked Elsie.

"Yes, I could afford something better now but I'm afraid not to save every dollar I can. I'll stay on a while longer until I'm sure my place is permanent with Madame."

Noel could understand that, too. "Promise me one thing, Elsie—if you're ever in any difficulties, will you let me know at once? I'll have more than I need for myself."

She was thinking of David and his wealth. "I'm marrying David Norris in a few weeks," Elsie said. "I'll be away for most of the summer but I'll keep in touch with you somehow."

Elsie was trying to wish Noel happiness with stumbling words. Her face had a strange look as though she were remembering some secret.

"Where you ever in love?" Noel asked unexpectedly. She was sorry she had asked when she saw Elsie's reaction. The thin young figure seemed to become tense in the low chair. Noel had a feeling Elsie resented the question.

"Yes," she finally admitted. "It wasn't pleasant."

"Don't talk about it then," Noel protested.

"I'd like to—it doesn't hurt any more," Elsie began. "I was engaged to be married back home. A week before our wedding he eloped with the richest girl in town. That's why I came to New York—to forget. Places don't make much difference when you've been hurt so bitterly."

"I'm sorry," Noel felt her words so inadequate.

"I'd never trust any man again!" Elsie spoke cynically.

"That's not fair to yourself," Noel suggested. "I hope you'll be married happily some day."

"If I do it will be for companionship—and security," Elsie retorted. Security, Noel was thinking—how women cling to the word. She didn't tell Elsie that's why she had first promised David to wait out of fear of the future and what it might hold for her.

But she thought about it continuously while she went to the theater. Love only brings misery—there was her own experience, and Elsie's.

It was out of this retrospection that she talked with David after the ceremony. He had brought up the subject of the marriage ceremony—where would they have it? Who would be there? Noel had a sense of closing every door behind her as she passively agreed with all his plans. David had a friend, a clergyman up in Westchester. They'd drive there in time to come back and board the Elana for its North Cape Cruise.

If We Waited While...

"AREN'T you afraid to marry me," David, knowing how I feel, knowing so much about me? She interrupted his eagerly reported arrangements.

"If you mean..." Whatever he was going to say he didn't utter. Instead he looked at her steadily. "I know you think you don't love me now, dear. But I know, too, that you'll keep your promises. I'll wait you to love me," he said as though making a solemn pledge.

"Perhaps if we waited a while for more time. Why? What would it bring her? She couldn't change anything!"

David seemed frightened. He protested ardently. No postponement, not that Noel! Then, sympathetically, "You're tired, upset. The play's been a strain on you—and I can understand your reluctance in leaving the stage—that's been so important to you."

David was generous in strange ways. Noel thought as he promised her. "If some time in the future, you want to go back to your work, if you feel you can't do without it,

President's Message to Congress Outlines Sharply Fundamentals of Democracy, Policy of National Defense.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 11.—The broad principles of President Roosevelt's message to congress, insofar as they relate to freedom of religion as a foundation stone of democracy, are still being discussed here. For the truth is no message in recent history has focused more pointedly the fundamentals of democracy in direct relationship to the policy of national defense.

When the President said "religion, democracy and international good faith require a united defense, it will be recalled that he significantly declared "to save one, we must make up our minds to save all" because they are "all the same fight."

Never before has a President linked religion to democracy as a thing worth fighting for with our national power, and that is why the subject is still uppermost in conversation and comment here, notwithstanding the fact that a week has gone by since the message was actually delivered.

The spiritual note in public affairs, to be sure, has been rising perceptibly of late, so the President's emphasis is opportune, but it is also a fact that what the totalitarian states like Russia, Germany and Italy have been doing to undermine religious practices and religious worship has created in America a deep-seated feeling of concern lest the indifference toward God which motivated Russia and Communism spread to America.

The basic point is that the defiance of religious tenets has done to the Russian and German and Italian governments in raising the banner of physical force as the supreme purpose of the state itself. America, of course, is not going to war on such abstract questions, but America is being asked nevertheless by the President to understand the forces which have bred such barbaric policies of anti-religion abroad.

Few people here would deny that the disintegration of a democracy can be begun by defiance of religion, for it is well understood that, when fair play and individual liberty, which are so interwoven with democratic institutions, are broken down, irregularities set in.

It is nevertheless novel to find public policy being shaped by considerations as broad as these, and the consensus here is that Mr. Roosevelt has quickened the heart of the American people with the restatement of the democratic faith.

There is something more important, however, than mere restatement of democratic doctrine as an integral part of national defense purposes for the benefit of foreign peoples or our own. It is the fact that attention begins to be placed on religion as an inspiration in public life itself.

Clearly, if religion is the source of democracy in an international picture, such as we are witnessing today, it is even more so when the domestic picture is viewed.

Those words, "social responsibility," which have been used again and again in public addresses to denote the scope of social and economic legislation, take on a new meaning nowadays when the President himself speaks of religious feeling as a central part of our national life. Out of religious thinking, irrespective of creed or race or class, often comes the motivation of good government.

Often, on the other hand, in the compromises of party politics or in the individual ambitions of persons who want to be elected or who want to be re-elected, the tenets of religious faith are cast aside or at least neglected, and

Loving Thoughts

THE two penguins stood before Willy Nilly. Little Yellow Beak was acting as best man, or best duck. Mrs. Quacko Duck was very happy as she had been asked to be matron of honor and she was wearing a lovely costume of a shawl made of downy feathers and a hat with a big plume at the side. The day was cold but no one wanted to suggest going indoors because the penguins liked the cold weather.

Christopher Columbus Crow, Sweet Face, Top Notch, the other ducks were in the background just a little, but Rip, the dog, was rushing to and fro. He had received instructions from Willy Nilly to see that the wedding feast would be just as the penguins liked it, and as he really did not know much about penguins he kept looking it over to make sure it was just as Willy Nilly had told him it should be.

Now Willy Nilly spoke to Mr. Johnny Penguin.

"Do you want this penguin to be your dear, dear mate?"

"Mr. Johnny Penguin answered: 'I do indeed, I do indeed, for this day I did wait.'"

Then Willy Nilly said: "And dear Miss Penguin, I ask you, will you have Johnny for a mate?"

To which she replied, looking a little to one side, for she was feeling a bit shy.

"Oh yes, oh yes, oh yes, I say, the wedding knot please tie."

And Willy Nilly smiled and said: "Now you two are just married, but it is my great wish, that all your lives you will enjoy sharing the same life."

The penguins rubbed necks at the end of the ceremony. And then Willy Nilly gave a pat to the happy bride.

"May you always have good luck—and good fish," he said. "Congratulations! I do indeed, and cawed and bleated and barked and quacked the Puddle Muddlers."

Dr. Arnold Verduin Tells College Club No Peace, No Honor

Using as a point of departure the recent Munich conference, Dr. Arnold Verduin, head of the history department at the New Paltz State Normal School, told the members of the College Women's Club last evening that there can be neither peace nor honor with the present setup of world conditions.

Dr. Verduin addressed the regular meeting of the College Women's Club at The Huntington under the auspices of the current events group. He was introduced by Mrs. Rose K. Witter.

Dr. Verduin chose as his text in contemplating the European situation the remark made by Prime Minister Chamberlain when he returned from the conference, "I bring back peace with honor." Dr. Verduin said that it is difficult to suppose that Chamberlain did bring back peace when in the next breath he urged double armaments and military conscription.

The speaker cited many other reasons why the probability of peace with honor is a difficult supposition; Germany plans to dismember Poland; Europe is wondering if Germany will make a new Sudetenland out of the Netherlands, Switzerland and Denmark; all ideas toward integrity have been wiped out; the fact that France let down her faithful ally, and the desertion of the democratic cause in central Europe. All these facts and many others point to the fact that a peaceful arrangement was not reached at the conference.

Looking at the conference itself, there is a variance of opinion as to the results. The prevailing viewpoint today is that it was a successful attempt at blackmailing. Germany's weapon of fear of an air attack furnished a lever by which Hitler succeeded in wrenching an agreement out of France. This affected France more than it did England and it was an inevitable fact, because Germany fortified the borders and France would have been set apart again.

Continuing his explanation of the conference he said that the leftists explain it as a frame-up. Chamberlain was not willing to go to the support of the Czechs because he was not sure of the support of the British dominions. The leftists say that Great Britain made it a frame-up to make Chamberlain a savior of the peace. France was persuaded to act the role she did in order that the leftists might be discredited in France.

The military results of the conference, according to the speaker last evening were: German military domination in Europe, the complete collapse of the Versailles treaty, a tendency to shut Britain and France out of eastern and central Europe, a removal of Hitler's greatest obstacle to eastern expansion, it showed Hitler the excellent power of the threat of an air raid and it seemed to shut out Russia from the rest of Europe. As for the political results, Dr. Verduin said that it was a great blow to the democracies and a great stimulus to authoritarian governments. It raised the issue of minorities. Hitler's interest in minorities is his use of them as a lever to put pressure on the little democratic neighbors. The democratic governments have lost face elsewhere as a result of the conference.

"There is no cause for worry," said the speaker, because it is not a new development, especially in the Latin-American countries. It is a native product in South America and not a German or Italian inspiration. Another result of the conference is that Hitler has been strengthened in Germany itself. Discussing the by-products of the conference, Dr. Verduin said that one of the greatest was the resulting insecurity in the smaller states. The great flood of anti-semitism, a disease which is spreading from Germany elsewhere has created a serious refugee problem. "The brutality with which Germany is treating the Jews is a kidnaper's morality," he said. This anti-semitism is not confined to Germany, it is even beginning to be noticeable in this country.

Dr. Verduin said that on the part of Italy, she feels that she should get something out of it, too. Italy's obvious place for expansion is in the Mediterranean at the expense of England and France. By demanding Corsica, Savoy and Nice, which have a large Italian population, she will get minor concessions as compensation.

Another by-product of the conference, according to Dr. Verduin, is the switch of German animosity from France and Czechoslovakia to Great Britain and the United States. He thinks that Germany hopes to blackmail Britain into giving Hitler colonies, thereby enlarging Germany's prestige. He also expressed the opinion that he feels that Germany hopes to discredit the United States in the eyes of the followers in Latin America.

Dr. Verduin suggested that one of the greatest needs today is a society with the desire for cooperation. The United States is beginning to realize the impossibility of isolation and today has a magnificent opportunity for world leadership by disinterested, active and strong moral leadership through moral prestige. The first part of this program suggested by Dr. Verduin should be economic disarmament. "Only after we have built up such a society will it be possible to disarm, and unless we can execute such leadership with world cooperation, there will be neither peace nor honor."

During the business session which preceded the address, plans were discussed for the banquet to be held February 14 at which Captain Gordon Heriot will be the guest speaker. Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed.

Atharhacton Club Has Annual Banquet

Atharhacton Club held its annual birthday banquet last evening in the private dining room of the Governor Clinton Hotel. The 24th birthday of the club will be celebrated next week.

The table, which was set for 11 members, was decorated with yellow marigolds. Place cards were small news sheet rolled for mailing, bearing a member's name. These were in keeping with the club's study of the newspaper for the season 1938-1939, and when opened, contained not only the program for the evening but also some social items and sports news concerning the members.

Following the dinner the president, Miss Ethel M. Hull, presented the guest speaker of the evening, Miss Louise W. Van Hovenberg, a charter member and the first president of the club. Miss Van Hovenberg presented much interesting information concerning the history of the club and showed a complete file of programs since the club was founded in 1915. Afterwards the guests enjoyed various games.

Arrangements for the banquet were made by Mrs. Carlton S. Preston, chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. Everett E. Fessenden and Miss Florence Cordes. Those attending the banquet were Mrs. Hamilton Boyd, Miss Florence Cordes, Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Mrs. Everett E. Fessenden, Mrs. Newton Fessenden, Miss Emily Hoysradt, Miss Ethel M. Hull, Mrs. Harold F. King, Mrs. William Kingman, Mrs. Joseph McNeils, Miss Lillian Nelson, Mrs. Carlton S. Preston, Miss Grace Reeves, Miss Agnes Scott Smith, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Miss Louise W. N.Y.A. Discusses Household Work

The household employment situation is discussed further by the National Youth Administration.

Selection and hiring of household employees: "My girl Jennie, must go because she doesn't know a thing about fine laundrying, and I do entertain so much. Nan, she's just the girl for you, because she's splendid with children. Why don't you let me send her over some day next week?"

"Yes, Helen, I know Jennie is good with children. Mabel had her when the children were small," etc. Which is one way employees are hired. Probably this conversation transpired over a "four-some" of bridge, or when Helen ran in for "just a minute's chat" with Nan.

Home situations vary: This common way of hiring help, is many times unreliable. Perhaps Mabel's children were quiet tots who, given a few toys were resourceful, and could amuse themselves. Nan's children may be high strung and nervous or full of the "old-nick." Mabel's may be the girls, Nan's may be boys. In other words, no two home situations are alike, and household employees who fit into one household will not fit into another. If Jennie fails to handle Nan's children, Nan's grievances added to Helen's gives Jennie two black marks where in another home situation, Jennie might do the laundry work and care for the children satisfactorily, for work standards vary in each home.

Avenues for locating prospective employees: Employment agencies are another source which may be drawn upon by persons seeking household employees. Sometimes a fee is charged by the agency. The employment agency is a sort of clearing house for jobs. Persons unemployed, and desiring work, should enroll in the New York State Employment Service, their community, and those desiring to employ a person should apply to this agency.

A third and very reliable source for household employees is the training school where girls and women are thoroughly trained in household duties.

The vocational school of the city offers training courses for young girls who are not old enough to leave school. Training programs have been set up in different cities throughout our country, and the various states, groups, and organizations have promoted the household employment training programs in different communities where courses are set up for employed persons as well as inexperienced persons that they may become more skilled in their jobs.

Training schools: The National Youth Administration in New York State has set up several schools where girls between the ages of 13 and 25 are instructed in the arts of homemaking, where the housewife is educated to the idea that homemaking is a profession that requires trained workers, and that the field of household employment needs to be made more attractive, and to appeal to trained and responsible people.

Analysis of job by housewife: When the housewife has made her choice as to the source she will draw upon for her hired help, the sorting out of applicants and the final selection by the housewife is an important task.

First and foremost the housewife will analyze the job to be filled, determining what part the employee will play in the scheme of living. Must she assume full responsibility of the home while the housewife herself, follows an outside profession, or will the worker be under her constant supervision? On the other hand, the helper may be needed solely for the care of the children and her skills should necessarily be developed along this line.

When this analysis has been made the housewife will go another step further in the job study. If it's a cook that is needed, must she be skilled in fancy cooking for elaborate entertaining, or instead be one capable of preparing good plain wholesome food.

It is often necessary to make a choice between an applicant skilled in the care of children and a poor cook, and one who is oppositely inclined. If some supervision can be given at first, a less skilled employee is necessary. It is a matter of choosing those skills and characteristics in the prospective employee which will mean most to the particular home situation.

Another important requisite for household employment in many communities today is the physical examination, whether provided by the housewife or paid for by the employee, it should be a requirement made by the housewife of her hired helper.

Because one's personal appearance and tidiness quite often is an indication of the orderliness of their mind and consequently of their work, a woman can judge to some degree the worth of an applicant.

The girl who appears with polished shoes, mended stockings, clean dress, all snaps in place, well-groomed nails and hair, clear complexion, is free from a strong odor of perfume with a quiet, pleasant speaking voice is apt to win out over another applicant who has had more actual experience, yet has neglected the matter of personal daintiness. The orderly one shows an aptness for learning and in a short time can be trained to fit into a new family situation.

But, housewife, be sure in your own mind as to the trait you most desire in your employee and then select the person possessing these traits.

And, most important of all: be

Make New Friends With Gracious Talk

Learn Conversational Tricks

New acquaintances, but already old friends! To think Kate used to dread a two-some—until she learned a few conversational tricks.

Do you find it hard to start a conversation out of this air? Keep eyes and ears open for new topics. A glance at your newspaper tells of an exciting hockey game. So easy to start with "Wasn't it great that the Cougars beat the Wild Cats?"

You hear a clever expression or joke? Remember it, bring it in when the conversation drags. "Such a lot of glitterbugs at Gloria's wedding."

Of course, it's rude to be inquisitive, to ask "Were you out with Mary last night?" But "Is it really true you were on a date ranch?" is the kind of question that keeps talk going.

And be gracious! If there's a shy fellow in the group, include him with "Jack says you're a whiz at bridge."

Easy to attract friends once you know the secret of good conversation. Our 32-page booklet tells you what to say when introduced, at dances, on the telephone, applying for a job. How to avoid conversational habits, charm with graceful talk.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of SECRETS OF GOOD CONVERSATION to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Hardest Period in Life of Dwarfs The hardest period in the life of dwarfs comes with the first realization that they will never grow more. It comes when they are hearing the teens and when they find themselves outdistanced by their companions, cut off from games and sports of their larger companions, and obliged to seek their own mediums of entertainment. The fact is that they turn to their own methods of entertainment and develop along artistic, musical or studious lines.

prepared yourself for the interview. Tell the prospective employer what you expect in the way of work, wages, hours, health examination, the amount of entertaining you do, the age of your children, the number in your family, and whether or not your meals are regular. Tell her of living conditions in your home and of your religious preference.

Be prepared to ask her of previous experiences, her references, in what tasks she is skilled, so that at the close of the interview both will have obtained definite information as to what is to be expected from the employee and what the employer in return for services will be willing to give the employee in the way of wages, good working conditions, and cooperation.

Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coon

HOLLYWOOD—It's high time credit were assigned for the current popularity of parenthood in Hollywood, which used to hide its babies behind sheafs of press clippings.

And if no other claimant arises, you can thank Bryant Washburn for the fact that babies in Hollywood are not only acknowledged by movie stars but boasted about.

Washburn is a bit-player now, and you can find him on the set of Claudette Colbert's "Midnight." But in 1918, with the old Essanay company in Chicago, Washburn was a romantic heartbeater on a plane with Francis X. Bushman.

In those days it was a stellar credo that babies were to be neither seen nor heard by the star's public. "Professional suicide," and publicized parenthood or marriage, were synonymous terms.

But now, Washburn and other screen celebrities were married and had children—but for the public they were pictured as potential Romeos for every screen-struck gal.

"ONE day I got sick of this secrecy," recalls Washburn, "and I took my year-old baby boy out for a stroll in his buggy down Sheridan Road. That one stroll was practically a news sensation—and the reaction, to everybody's surprise, was most favorable. My fans didn't drop me cold, in fact they liked my attitude."

And since then—well, Bing Crosby is a top favorite and has four sons. Marlene Dietrich's rise was not impeded by her daughter, Norma Shearer's children didn't keep her down, and many married stars who haven't children of their own have gone out and adopted one or more. Often the unmarried—like Loretta Young—will adopt a child when possible.

Babies are "in" in Hollywood—and "in" to stay.

AFTER 34 years as "gentleman's gentleman" to George Arliss, Jenner is back in Hollywood—on his own.

Jenner's meticulous attentions to his master made Hollywood legend—and Bette Davis tells a story that is typical of his jealous devotion.

Bette, who owes her Warner contract to Arliss's selection of her for "The Man Who Played God," was sitting on a set-chair during that production—and she hadn't noticed that the chair was marked with Arliss's name.

Suddenly she heard a warning voice behind her. "There's going to be some 'ot soup down your neck in one moment, Miss, if you don't move!"

Leaping up in quick-time, Bette saw Jenner, an ominous glint in his eye, standing there. When the master's chair was vacated, the glint disappeared and he was all smiles.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes that good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores, 10¢ and 25¢.

Stamps

In The News

By the A. P. Feature Service

The Swiss Pro-Juventute stamps are the most popular of all charity issues. The series began in 1913 with the issue of one value, showing Helvetia with the Matterhorn in the background. From 1918-26, these richly colored, typographic stamps depicted the arms of the 25 cantons, from Uri to Aargau. Since then, they have shown mostly peasant types and a few outstanding figures from the arts, taken from Swiss annals.

Altogether there have been 88 Pro-Juventute stamps, and the 1938 set of four maintains the standard set for these attractive issues. The three higher values, printed by typography, show girls in native costumes, from St. Gall on the 10-centimes violet and buff; from Uri on the 20-c red and buff; from Aargau on the 30-c blue and buff. A scenic background suggests the respective canton in each case.

Salomon Gessner, eighteenth century Swiss poet, painter and etcher, is portrayed handsomely on the recess-printed 5-c green. He was born in Zurich April 1, 1730, and died there March 2, 1788, so the 150th anniversary of his death is practically at hand.

College At Reykjavik

Iceland is telling the world she has a 20-year-old university. A recently issued set of three stamps—25-aur olive green, 30-aur brown and 40-aur red violet—commemorates the 20th anniversary of the Icelandic University. The common design shows the facade of the main building at Reykjavik.

Central American Presidents

To get pictures of the presidents of six Central American republics, the new airmail set from Guatemala is your buy. Stamps of this issue, put out to commemorate the first Central American Philatelic Exhibition held at Guatemala City November 20-27, are typographed and look like labels, but the heads are interesting.

The 1-centavo orange shows Dr. Juan Demostenes Arce, president of Panama; 3-c red, Sr. Don Leon Cortes of Costa Rica; 3-c green and buff, Gen. Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua; 4-c plum and mauve, Gen. Tiburcio Carias Andino of Honduras; 5-c bluish and pale green, Gen. Maximiliano H. Martinez of Salvador; 10-c blue and pale blue, Gen. Jorge Ubico of Guatemala. In each case the portrait is printed in sepia.

Jersey Reds Here Thursday For Contest With Colonials

Armstrong Takes Over Arizmendi

Los Angeles, Jan. 11 (AP)—

Henry Armstrong, champion of the world's welter and light-weight boxers, successfully fought off the challenge of Baby Arizmendi, the rugged little Mexican, in their fifth encounter last night.

Duplicating their last two clashes, it was a gruelling battle for ten rounds that kept more than 10,000 spectators in an uproar, with both fighters standing toe to toe, shoulder to shoulder, like two tiny bulls.

The Tanglefoot Kid left the ring a beaten man, one side of his face covered with blood, but he could point to a record unequalled by anyone else in the fight game.

He had just finished his fifty-second round opposite Henry Armstrong with never a knock-down scored against him; nor had he been seriously hurt.

In the final counting it was Armstrong's relentless and more powerful punches that brought him referee George Blake's decision. Bored several times for his jerky shoulder movements in the clinches and his bobbing head, Armstrong lost at least one round for accidental butting.

The bout was billed as a welter-weight title match. Armstrong weighed 134½, Arizmendi 136, just over the lightweight limit.

Another Step Forward

This girl and boy, featured in this year's "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign, represent the legion of those who wear braces and the army that moves on crutches. Their pictures appear in all posters and literature of the "March of Dimes" campaign and the celebrations in honor of the President's birthday. Symbolic of the drive for funds they are the unknown soldiers in the mobilization of millions of citizens who will contribute their dimes and dollars to the cause.
